The Art of Memoir: Writing Your Story

The development of a memoir is a profoundly personal adventure that presents special rewards and challenges to the writer. Everyone has an important and interesting story to tell. If you are compelled to write your life or feel drawn to explore memories on the page, this workshop will provide a stimulating and supportive environment. It will also offer a structure to help you develop and maintain a regular writing practice. Writers of all levels, working on short pieces or book-length works are welcome.

Five Mondays, September 10 – October 8, 2012 • 7:00 PM – 9:00 PM • $225

Riverlight Writing Center • 107 Wilcox Road, Suite 102, Stonington, CT

If You Want to Write

Are you an aspiring writer who needs help to begin or continue a writing project? Sometimes we need a stimulating environment among others with a similar desire “to get things down on paper” in order to spark or re-light the writing flame. Exploration in writing can take the form of memoir, personal essay, autobiography, poetry, biography, journaling, plays, blogging, tweeting, keeping a writer’s notebook, fiction – even notes on scraps of paper. If you have the urge to write but don’t know how to get started – or keep going - this workshop will offer a supportive environment along with suggestions for sharing, promoting, marketing and publishing your work. Writers of all experience levels are welcome.

Five Tuesdays, September 11 – October 9, 2012 • 10:00 AM – 12:00 noon • $225
